

COSCA (Counselling & Psychotherapy in Scotland)

Recognition Scheme for Organisations
Standards Event

Thursday 16th August 2018 2 pm - 4 pm

Volunteer Scotland, Jubilee House, Forthside Way, Stirling FK8 1QZ

Call for Speakers!

Creating Ethical Counselling Organisations: How does an organisation's structure affect its ethical considerations? What are the strengths and weaknesses of different structures of organisation; large, small, multidisciplinary or specialist and how do organisations work within these structures to provide safe and ethical environments for their clients and service users?

COSCA are currently seeking presenters to offer 15 minute presentations. You may like to explore:

How much should be shared within an organisation about a client?
Is bigger better?

How do organisations deal with unethical behaviour?

Are waiting lists easier to manage in larger or smaller organisations?

How impartial and honest can an organisation be when dealing with complaints?

Is fundraising using existing staff or dedicated fundraisers better value for money?

How should an organisation balance the input of paid workers with the contribution of volunteers?

Presenters would gain free admission to the event and receive any agreed travel expenses incurred. If you would like to contribute, please let me know by

7th March 2018

COSCA (Counselling & Psychotherapy in Scotland)
16 Melville Terrace | Stirling | FK8 2NE
jenna@cosca.org.uk
cosca.org.uk
01786 475140

