Registering Your Course with Skills Development

National learning opportunities database (NLOD)

To present the extensive range of training opportunities on offer to learners, Skills Development Scotland provides, through the course search tool on My World of Work, the most comprehensive learning opportunities database in Scotland.

This is the National Learning Opportunities Database (NLOD). Details of active courses of those providers who have registered with SDS will be shown on the NLOD.

COSCA validated training providers can register on the NLOD for free to promote their courses to thousands of learners through the website and helplines.

Provider Central

Visit <https://www.skillsdevelopmentscotland.co.uk/for-training-providers/> for full details of how training providers can register.

Register with SDS will further raise the profile of your training course(s) with the public across Scotland and increase awareness generally of the significant amount of training in counselling, counselling skills and counselling supervision that is currently taking place in Scotland.
