FREE ONLINE EVENT - Coronavirus: Considering Our Responses And Responsibilities

Onlinevents delivered on 18th march 2020 the above free online event to support counsellors who may be considering moving their practice online.

The replay of the event is now available on the onlinevents website along with a set of training videos that support counsellors to begin to work with their clients online. Onlinevents is making all these resources available without charge – see link below.

Onlinevents is also hosting a number of online zoom support groups for counsellors over the next few weeks which are accessible with a donation so that everyone can join in along with a completely free online Relational Depth Workshop from Professor Mick Cooper.

You can see all these resources here, including a support group for trainers who will suddenly find themselves working online. This might be of particular interest to trainers delivering on COSCA validated courses.

We would like to thank John Wilson, Presenter at Onlinevents and whose specialism is online counselling, for contacting COSCA about the above event.
